Dear Friends,

During this very busy time of the year, you may not have the time to visit our website to view the beautiful paintings created by our student artists. So this Giving Tuesday, we have a gift for you: YAFH artwork right in your inbox!

Research shows that art plays an important role in improving our well-being, and our physical, mental and emotional health. It brings beauty, joy, and so much more into our lives. Please enjoy viewing the selection below of YAFH student artwork from years past and be inspired.

Wishing you a peaceful holiday season,

Jan

Help Share the Healing Power of Art

GIVING TUESDAY

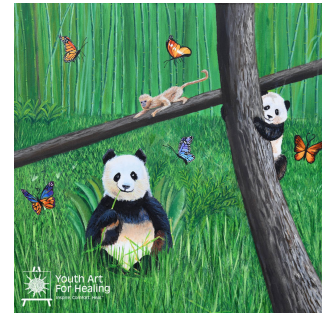

Today is Giving Tuesday, a global movement that unleashes the power of kindness and radical generosity.

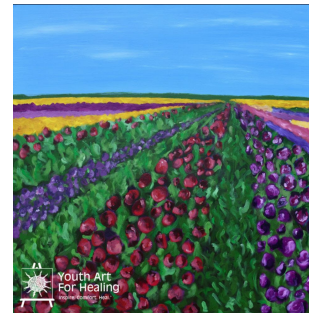

The movement began in 2012, in response to Black Friday and Cyber Monday. The founders of Giving Tuesday asked people to consider donating to charities in the midst of holiday shopping. Giving Tuesday has since inspired millions of people to give, collaborate, and celebrate generosity all through the year.

This Giving Tuesday, will you consider supporting Youth Art For Healing and help us share the healing power of art?

YAFH Student Artwork

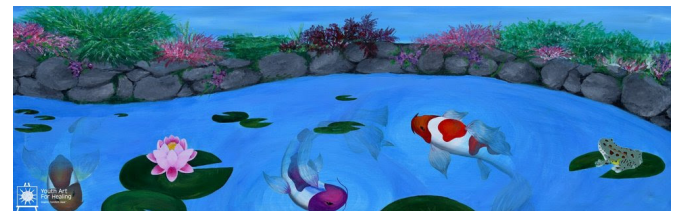

Large-Scale Student Paintings

Each year when we plan our upcoming projects, YAFH partners with healthcare organizations to select specific areas at their sites for the permanent installation of student-created paintings. These areas include exam rooms, treatment rooms, inpatient rooms, lobbies, waiting rooms, dining areas, hallways, and conference rooms. We measure the spaces and our student artists create paintings in a variety of canvas sizes.

When our healthcare partners have bigger spaces, they request larger paintings by our students. Often, two or more students collaborate to create these larger works of art and the end results are always amazing!

Now, we have a new gallery so that you can view the beautiful large-scale paintings that YAFH student artists have created over the years. Please enjoy!
